

Ausher M. B. Kofsky, MBA, CPA, JD, LLM
Associate Professor of Accounting
Department of Accounting and Finance
Date of Hire: 2012

Faculty Qualification Status: SA
Participating or Supporting Faculty Status: Participating

EDUCATION:

LL.M., Georgetown University Law Center, Washington, D.C., Taxation, with Distinction, 2011
J.D., Cornell University Law School, Ithaca, NY, Concentration in Advocacy, 2002
M.B.A., University of Rochester, William E. Simon Graduate School of Business Administration, Public Accounting, 1982
B.A., University of Rochester, College of Arts and Sciences, Economics, cum laude, 1981

TEACHING RESPONSIBILITIES

Accounting, Business Law, Taxation

FACULTY ENGAGEMENT ACTIVITIES TO SUSTAIN QUALIFICATION STATUS
(July 2013-June 2018):

REFEREED JOURNAL ARTICLES

What a Long Strange Trip It's Been for the 3.8 Percent Net Investment Income Tax, Maryland Law Review, Ausher M. B. Kofsky and Bryan P. Schmutz (Accepted 2018, Publication T.B.D.).

The Case of the Crippled Convict, Journal of Finance Case Research, Merouane Lakehal-Ayat, Michael W. Fedoryshyn, and Ausher M. B. Kofsky (Accepted 2017, Publication T.B.D.).

Rehabilitating Frankenstein's Monster: Repairing the Public Policy of the Roth IRA, 80 Alb. L. Rev. 161 (Published Oct. 2016).

Because Forever is Too Long, 37 W. New Eng. L. Rev. 265 (Published February 2015).

Sorry, You Can't Get There from Here: The Untenable Goal of Using Short-Term Rental Real Estate to Attain Real Estate Professional Status, 60 Loy. L. Rev. 57; (Published January 2014).

ADDITIONAL ACADEMIC ENGAGEMENT ACTIVITIES:

Below are annual conferences of the Law and Society Association at which I presented manuscripts of my articles.

Toronto, Canada. June 8, 2018. – What a Long Strange Trip It's Been for the 3.8 Percent Net Investment Income Tax.

Mexico City, Mexico: June 23, 2017. – Trust Fund Recovery Penalty (manuscript still in development stage).

New Orleans: June 2, 2016: – Rehabilitating Frankenstein's Monster

Seattle: May 29, 2015: – Because Forever is Too Long